THE GRAND DUKE NICHOLAS, second cousin of the late Romanoff Emperor, says the Soviet government is doomed. He, Nicholas, is willing to give his life for his country, and the monarchists are coming back.

WHAT'S WHAT the French monarchists used to say after the French Revolution. Kings did come back for a while, but they didn't last. Then after the Third Empire there was the same prediction that the Napoleons would return. But the little Napoleons, Princes Imperial, got himself killed in Africa, the French Republic is permanent and there is no more talk of monarchy or empire coming back. That's what will happen in Russia. They may have a military dictator in place of Lenin and Trotsky, who were dictators of theory. But in the end the Russians will govern themselves.

A MAJORITY of German voters want to try the Dawes plan. Dr. Wirth, a man of real intelligence and ability, comes back to office, favoring the plan, and his side has too many votes in the Reichstag than all the other parties combined. Evidently the Germans will try, at least, to pay six hundred millions a year in gold, with a debt of thirty millions hanging over them. Quote an undertaking.

HOWEVER, there is a cloud on the horizon several times as big as any man's hand. The Socialists, who are the "moderates" of Germany, lost about fifty seats to the Communists, who are the "immoderates."

OUR LOSS is Canada's gain. If you find any comfort in that.

The people of Sweden and Norway, who did so much to build up the Northwest and did their work so well, making the best possible class of American citizens, are virtually shut out by the Immigration law. The manager of a Swedish steamship line announces that they will be taken to Canada, where they will be welcome.

YOU WOULD call a farmer a fool if he shuts out valuable work horses that would develop his farm. What do you say about a nation that shuts out the most valuable kind of Immigration?

OUR FRIENDS in Canada say that the United States building a canal from Chicago through the Mississippi to the New Orleans and the Gulf and on through the Panama Canal to the East.

The Canadian theory is that we might take too much water from the lakes if we built such a canal and Canada profits.

IT WILL be interesting to see the attitude of Secretary Hughes on that proposition. He and some others of our statesmen have appeared to think that what England or her children want must necessarily be done.

IT IS perfectly true that the waters on the Lakes on her side. The people in this country will get a great deal of thinking to do they decide that Canadian Canada would not be so kind to the Lake cities with the Mississippi Basin, the Gulf and the oceans of the world.

THIS BARRY, JOSEPH O. HARRY, rector of the Church of St. Mary the Virgin, and a Protestant Episcopal minister, says the Protestant Episcopal Church could join the Roman Catholic Church in a union of Papal infallibility. A union might be arranged. Very likely other objections might come from them, perhaps from Rome. In a case. Continued on Page 2, Col. 6.

COOLIDGE WARNED BY COOLIDGE

Louis A. Requests President and Butler to Keep Hands Off Senate Fight Here

President Coolidge and William M. Butler were today warned to keep their hands off the Massachusetts fight for the Republican nomination for U. S. Senator by Louis A. Coolidge, the only candidate in the field at present.

The warning was contained in a letter received by Butler from error Cox returned his declaration that he would not enter the campaign.

It followed by an hour or two the arrival in Boston of Mr. Butler, the prospective chairman of the Republican National Committee, to attend the dedication of a memorial to the late John F. Curran.

In his statement Mr. Coolidge after outlining his work for the Republican party said:

"I am now a candidate for the United States Senate and shall continue to be a candidate until the primaries in September. I believe I shall be nominated."

"Of course the field for the Republican nomination is open to any Republican who chooses to enter it."

"The Republicans of Massachusetts have always been in the habit of determining for themselves who their candidate shall be. I have been as long familiar with politics that I am sure the President of the United States would not interfere in the selection of a Republican candidate for the Senate. That would be manifestly improper and of course, they would not."

Governor Cox said he had not been in touch with Mr. Butler and had no clear warning to say him.

Stengel of Braves Fined $100 and Suspended

New York, May 6.—Casey Stengel, veteran outfielder of the Boston Braves, was fined $100 and suspended indefinitely today by John A. Heyler, president of the National League for "disgraceful conduct" in the game yesterday with Brooklyn at Ebbets Field.

Stengel was ejected from the game by Umpire Jack Powell after a heated argument resulting from the manager's decision to strike while outfielder Powell, of the Braves, was at the plate in the second inning.

Stengel defied the umpire's order for several minutes and took his regular spot in the field until a threat that his action would forfeit the game persuaded him to depart.

Powell, the outfielder, and Manager Dave Hunter of the Braves were both banished at the same time.

CASS GOES FREE ON CHARGE OF PRACY

Any boyhood ambition that Ray Cass, sporting man and fight manager, might have had toward boxing a prize has been made an empty shell.

U. S. Commissioner Wheeler, in United States court today, cleared Cass of pracy charges, denied extradition to Canada, and discharged the defendant.

A horde of friends and law-abiding citizens on business in the Federal Building surrounded the Ray Cass, who was not expected to appear.

15-Year-Old Medford Youth Drops Dead on Practice Run

The ambition of fifteen-year-old Wendell L. Powers, Medford High School freshman, to become a second Clarence H. DeMar, was bigger than the human machine the boy had to work with.

Today he was found dead beneath the Cross street bridge over the Medford branch of the R. & M. Railroad in Medford. His running sneakers were on his feet, their well-worn soles giving mute evidence of the mile that had plodded and the youth's sole ambition.

But his heart had collapsed. Medical Examiner Thomas M. Darrell called it by a long, science name, and then explained that it meant enlarged glands of the heart.

Less than 200 feet away—a stone's throw—had followed in the wake of his name, a boy who worked hard in the print shop of Joseph A. Miller, Jr., the moment Miller came across the street from beneath the bridge.

Every boy in Medford, where DeMar, a former star, had died, was in the habit of looking up to the Marathon kid.

Hundreds of boys have sought to follow the example of the great DeMar in the hope that some day they might win his fame. Always, in boyhood, the universal wish was, "I'm DeMar." Then the fact was not for the honor of carrying the name.

But Wendell Powers ran alone. His ambition was bigger than that. Barred from participation in Medford High School track events because of the rule that forbids freshmen competing, the boy took to running of his accord, without the careful supervision of instructors and trainers.

He ran incessantly. Last week, to his father, he confessed that he would soon attempt the long jump record of 20 feet. It was with difficulty that the father, realizing his son's frail frame, dissuaded him for the time.

At 6:40 this morning Wendell told his father that he was going to practice.

Employer Strikes Blow at Defense of Amaral in Providence Murder Mystery

Providence, R. I., May 6.—The defense young, Anthony Amaral has been building against his arraignment on May 14 on the charge of abducting and slaying nine-year-old Clementine Cosmo has received what the police believe to be a shattering blow in the withdrawal by Elisha Jordan of his previous support of Amaral's alibi.

Mr. Jordan is the managing member of the firm of Jordan Brothers Amaral's employers, on Echo Farm in the Saylesville section of Lincoln.

Until now Mr. Jordan had been assuring the detectives at work upon the Cosmo case that there could be no doubt whatever that Amaral did not visit Euseb Providence at any time during the day of Clementine Cosmo's disappearance.

The young prisoner's employer now declares that in these repeated statements he has been in error.

Thinking it all over, and recalling that April 22nd was a rainy day, Mr. Elisha Jordan, according to the police, now comes forward and declares that to the best of his recollection he did not see Amaral on that Tuesday afternoon after the young Portuguese had been sent to the broader house to put in a few nights of sleep.

"I remember that I sent Amaral to the broader house," the police quote Mr. Jordan as saying in his latest statement on the subject, "because the ground was too wet to allow of work out of doors."

WRONG ASSUMPTION.
"It was simply my natural belief that because I sent him to the broader house he went there. I stayed there, but in view of Amaral's statement to the authorities that, as a matter of fact, he did visit Euseb Providence during the day, I can see that I was wrong."

But in the first statement he had made to any newspaper, Amaral, one of Warden Charles E. Lincoln's 400 prisoners at Cranston, told the American that he is sure any statement extracted from him during his last few hours at Providence police headquarters will be an exact copy of what he said.

PRISONER IN MAZE.
"I don't know what I said or what I didn't say, in essence last few hours," Amaral tells the American. "For hours, they had not given me either food or water. I was in a maze."

NURSED FATHER, WE D'S MILLIONAIRE SON

MRS. CHARLES F. FAIRBANKS
Former Anna Louise MacLean, graduate nurse, who was married to Charles F. Fairbanks, the "Gladious King" of Lexington, at St. Peterburg, Fla. Mr. Fairbanks became acquainted with her when she nursed his father.

GLADIOLUS KING TAKES NURSE AS BRIDE

Anna Louise MacLean, graduate of the Boston City Hospital School for Nurses, and Charles F. Fairbanks of Lexington, known to horticulturists the world over as "America's Gladiolus King," were married last Saturday week at St. Peterburg, Fla.

The groom whose principal claim to fame is his great love for flowers and his skill in raising and developing his favorite, the gladiolus, is a millionaire several times over.

His bride, who came to Boston several years ago from West River, P. E. I., is the daughter of parents in modest circumstances.

One of Miss MacLean's first important cases was her assignment to nurse Mr. Fairbanks' late father, the first Charles F. Fairbanks, at his home in Milton.

Charles F. Fairbanks, Jr., met the pretty young nurse from West River from time to time while she was a constant attendant upon his father, and when, some six years ago, he married, he chose her as his bride. For several years, she was the first person he sent for.

Since that time, according to the Boston City Hospital, he has been a constant attendant upon her. Continued on Page 2, Col. 7.

HUSBAND IS GIVEN LIKE SENTENCE

New York, May 6.—Celia Cooney, Brooklyn's notorious bobbed-hair bandit was sentenced to from ten to twenty years today by Judge Martin in Brooklyn.

Her husband, Edward Cooney, merited a similar fate.

Mrs. Cooney was sentenced to Auburn prison and her husband to Sing Sing. They had pleaded guilty to a charge of assault and robbery.

The bobbed hair accepted her sentence graciously. She looked Judge Martin squarely in the eyes and when he had finished she turned to her guards as if to indicate she was ready for the next step.

GET THE LIMIT.
Cooney was very grave. He looked at his girl-wife and she smiled at him.

The court was packed. Outside great crowds gathered. The girl bandit was dressed trimly in a blue suit and a new spring hat. She appeared to be "sane and sane."

This was the first case of a short, snatched, career in crime of the famous "bobbed hair bandit" girl and her husband.

Judge Martin, who yesterday was notified that the girl and man were also arrested before sentence was given, said that he would give them the limit today.

Cooney and the girl had only expressed the hope that the court would be lenient with them.

Though exhibiting no nervousness, the keen enjoyment that Celia had shown just after her arrest was missing today. The novelty of the turn over.

COOLIDGE OBJECTS TO IN. BILL CHANGES

Washington, May 6.—President Coolidge let it be known today that he regards as undesirable some of the amendments made to the Immigration bill by the Senate.

Apparent in view of the fact that the amendments are those which would increase the number of immigrants and the number of immigrants, these amendments are regarded as more desirable than the substitution of the Simmons bill for the Mellon rates as voted yesterday by the Senate.

SLAYS WOMAN AND GIVES HIMSELF UP
Mount Holly, N. J., May 6.—(U.S.N.)—A fast foot to follow, her hand and butcher knife to cut her throat, Frances Green, 42 years old, was followed by a Philadelphia detective who said Green admitted slaying and took him to the house where the deed was committed. Parker said the woman declared the slaying was due to an "argument."

GIRLS, BEWARE OF "TRENCH MOUTH"

Smoking Causes Painful New Disease, Says Harvard Dental Dean

"The 'trench mouth' may get you if you don't quit smoking," said Dr. L. K. Miner, dean of the Harvard Dental School, who was elected president of the Massachusetts Dental Society, gave an instruction on the disease in the treatment of which he is a recognized specialist.

"What was known during the war as 'trench mouth,' Dr. Miner said, 'is now called 'Vincent's disease,' after the man who first discovered it. The germ is transmitted from one person to another."

"The symptoms of the disease are a sore and pus in the mouth, and the tongue is sore. It causes intense suffering, although there have been only three actual deaths to my knowledge."

"Lately the disease has been on the increase and particularly among women."

"Smoking is attributed as the cause for 'Vincent's disease' among women. This smoke breaks down the strength of the mouth tissues and they are more susceptible to infection."

Stork Brings Twin Boys on 13th Visit to Brockton Home

Brockton, May 6.—To the home of Frank Marchant, No. 25 Old Colony square, the stork arrived for the 13th time, and left a lanky pair of sons, making 14 in all.

All the children, with the exception of the oldest daughter, who is married, is living at home. The first dozen were, mostly, devoted as to one. The twins are boys.

Avon schedule by the New Haven has been rechecked, through the efforts of a committee of citizens. But the Avon residents, aroused at the slight given their town are going "right after the other trains."

A mass meeting was held by the citizens last night in Enterprise Hall, Gowers square. Nearly 300 citizens attended. Although two officials of the New Haven were invited to be present, neither attended. William O'Brien of the State Department of Public Utilities was there, however. Charges that Hallowell is favored greatly over Avon in the matter of train service, even though Avon's freight and passenger contribution is larger, were made at the meeting.

A plan was set about to secure a single ticket from Brockton to Avon square rather than to the old Highland Park grounds.

BIBLE A MINE OF PURE GOLD, WRITER SAYS

Another in American Contest Advocates New Book and 2 More Commandments

Some would have a new Bible and would revise the Ten Commandments.

Others are indignant at the mere suggestion of these.

What do YOU think?

From over all New England letters are pouring in to answer to the Contest Editor in answer to the two questions pertinent just now: "Does the World Need a New Bible?" and "Are 'The Ten Commandments' Sufficient?"

Frank W. Hill, of No. 24 Washington street, Lynn, declares that the present Bible and Commandments are sufficient. An excerpt from his letter says:

"What the world does need is to read and digest some of the beautiful parts of the present Good Book—like St. John, for instance. It is good food for the mind, and that is needed much as food for the stomach."

On the other hand, Evelyn Bauer of No. 291 Manchester street, Manchester, N. H., declares in her letter: "Let there be an eleventh Commandment, and a twelfth, even, instead of 'I'." She advocates a new Bible, but asserts that "the inspiration of God and The Son will bless it with new life."

Caroline A. Fright of No. 95 East Central street, New Bedford, answers the question with one of her own. Here is her note:

"Does the world need a New Bible? Are the Ten Commandments sufficient? In answer to the above questions, I would ask another—'Can the creature speak better than the Creator?'"

From Charles B. Sherwood's letter, addressed at No. 118 Withrop street, Roxbury, the following is quoted:

"CASKET OF GEMS."

"If we discard them we have nothing to take their place and never will have."

"The Holy Scriptures are a mine of purest gold, a bed of the goodliest pearls, a casket of rarest and richest gems, and contain a precious promise for every time of need and are the best pillow for our dying head."

If, however, of the Holy Scriptures, the King James Bible is to the English-speaking world the all-sufficient, its very heart blood.

SUPREMACY CODE.

Of the Ten Commandments, he asserts: "A supreme code of morals, they are not sufficient, because they are not all-encompassing. Did not Moses break the table on which they were written? The defect is in the omission of the foremost law for human happiness: Love thy fellow man more than thyself."

Mrs. Lilla Horning of No. 66 Tremont street, Pawtucket, R. I., is firm for retaining both the present Bible and Ten Commandments. An excerpt from her letter follows:

GERMAN VOTES SHOW TREND TO MONARCHY

Paris, May 6.—The result of the German elections has convinced some of the specialists in German affairs attached to the Foreign Office that the new Reichstag will contain a clear majority in favor of the monarchy. It is expected here that the majority will go slow, but it is thought the trend toward a return of the old regime, thus begun, will continue.

UNKNOWN SAYS HE, NOT HUBBY, SLEW WOMAN

New York, May 6.—The judge who sentenced Harry Friedlich, convicted of killing his wife, to from ten to twenty years in Sing Sing Prison, today is considering an anonymous letter purporting to be the confession of the real murderer.

The conviction was based largely on testimony of Friedlich's nine-year-old son, who said he saw his father leave the family apartment one morning and "a minute" later had gone into his mother's room where he found her dead in her bed with a ceiling gas jet torn from its place and the room full of fumes.

Testimony at the trial showed that Mrs. Friedlich's lungs contained no gas but that there were marks on her throat.

College Education

A Great Boon to New England

It seems to be the fashion to throw bricks at colleges. We often read of how this or that person succeeded in becoming famous although he never went to college.

There is danger here in being led astray by special instances instead of using our common sense and studying general averages.

Statistics gathered by James McKinney and A. M. Simons show that the all too common notion that college training unites a man for business is a mistaken one.

These statistics show that of five million men in the United States who had no schooling only thirty-one attained distinction. With a college education, five thousand one hundred and sixty-eight men out of one million achieved success.

It is well to keep in mind, therefore, in estimating your chances that the child with no schooling has one chance in one hundred and fifty thousand of performing distinguished service, while the one who has a college education has eight hundred times that chance.

Nowhere else in the world are there more educational advantages offered a community as in New England, and particularly Boston.

The Prospect Union Association of Cambridge is an organization formed to stimulate the desire for education and to help those who want it.

The director is Charles A. Gates. His office is at No. 780 Massachusetts avenue, Cambridge. This is an endowed agency. It makes no profits and it accepts no fees, either from individuals or from schools.

It has just issued a Summer School bulletin, listing 199 courses of study that may be pursued this summer in the schools and colleges of Greater Boston. Of these, 131 courses may be pursued by those who work during the day and must study at night. It lists forty-five schools which give correspondence courses, of which nineteen have evening instruction available.

There are courses in wallpaper design, window dressing, pantomime stage direction, toy making, textiles, steam engineering, salesmanship, poultry husbandry, poster work, public speaking, lampshade making, fashion drawing, lettering, library science, floriculture, embalming, catering, citizenship, box making, automobile upholstery, Americanization.

The above are mentioned because they are unique. In the list are other branches that would help almost anyone engaged in almost any occupation to improve ability and opportunity.

Consider a course of study as a Summer vacation. If you commit Mr. Gates, you will find something on his list that will fascinate you to such an extent that you may find more fun out of study this summer than you can get out of idling.

Here's an Olla Podrida

That's a Fancy Way of Describing a Heterogeneous Mixture

Admiral Coonts says the defects of our battle fleet make it impossible for the ships to fight as a unit. Another naval officer says our navy strength is below England and Japan. President Coolidge is the Commander-in-Chief of Army and Navy, responsible to the people for whatever happens. If he will build enough flying machines and submarines it won't be necessary to worry much about our battleships, or about the fact that England won't consent to our transforming old slow coal-burning ships into faster oil-burning ships, or consent to the raising of our guns to increase their range.

The plucky Frenchman, Lieutenant d'Oisy, who suddenly started on a flight from Paris to Tokio without special permission, makes a new flight record from Europe to India—Paris to Karachi in 38½ hours, flying alone. If in heaven, where, say, Christopher Columbus, could bear that, it would take him back to his slow week after week sailing, on a short cut, to India as he thought, but in reality to America and eternal fame.

Leopold Zimmermann, head of a big banking firm, Zimmermann & Forsyth, is seventy-one years old. His bank failed, owing $3,500,000. Mr. Zimmermann, aged seventy-one, is now back in business, announcing his intention to stay until he has paid his creditors dollar for dollar. He will DO IT if he lives. Age isn't anything; COURAGE is what counts. Zimmermann's firm was ruined by fluctuations in foreign money exchange.

The big steel company's report for the first three months this year shows net earnings of more than fifty million dollars, more than the company ever earned before, and in wartime. Extra dividends will continue, at a rate that will mean a difference of TEN MILLIONS A YEAR to holders of the common stock. All this in spite of the eight-hour-day, which replaces the twelve-hour-day, which was said to be "impossible." You can't tell until you try. No man or concern was ever ruined by treating others fairly.

While novel writers describe a terrible future in which Japan and Russia are to unite and crush the United States, Mr. Trotsky, boss of Russia, just at present is seriously considering the necessity of fighting Japan. The part of our government that is managed by banking interests and that shivers at the Japanese words "serious consequences" might learn something by a short talk with Trotsky, or the statesmen of little Australia might teach them even more. NOT TO BE AFRAID is the first thing. An elephant shivering at the sight of a mouse is rather ridiculous.

Those who said Ireland couldn't govern herself should hang their heads in shame. The hasn't been at it long, but she already acts like a first-class power; she's planning to float her second loan in this country.

Still Room at the Top

The present control of the New York Central has been proving that there is still room at the top.

Pat Crowley was a messenger boy. He is now president of the road. Nobody helped Pat up but himself.

Pat's place is filled by R. D. Starck, who also started low and worked up.

This in turn opens a promotion for Tim Evans, who began as a messenger.

We dare say there are plenty of other men on lower rounds of the railway ladder who would do quite as well in a higher place as these promoted men.

They will not, however, be envious, but will be pleased that three good chaps have gone up. The fact will admonish them that they, too, have a chance.

Nobody but himself can keep a good man down.

A WIFE'S MEDITATIONS

By HELEN ROWLAND

NO man would ever get as far as the altar if he stopped to picture himself as a glowing hero instead of as a dashing lover.

The man who asks you the handsome wedding gift is usually the old fellow who "got away" and is grateful; the one who really loved you isn't the heart to help you celebrate.

Most people "choose partners" and about the marriage as a slightly and curiously as though it were going to be a long sweet jangling, instead of one of the rare joys of life.

Every man, like Achilles, has a vulnerable spot in his heart, but in his vanity his stomach, his senses, or his "amour propre." Find it and use it straight!

When you put your heart into your work your head will soon follow and that's what the world calls "sense." Find it and use it straight!

When you put your heart into your work your head will soon follow and that's what the world calls "sense." Find it and use it straight!

There are three times in a man's life when it is fatal to offer him logic: when he wants food, when he wants a drink and when he is in love.

This may be the age of the flapper, but a widow with one good eye can still see the way to the select spot in a man's heart better than an unmarried girl with two beautiful ones.

To hold one's devotion a strong, worthy man who will let her share his success, but is so apt to love a weak, unworthy one who will let her "save his soul."

A good woman may admire a strong, worthy man who will let her share his success, but is so apt to love a weak, unworthy one who will let her "save his soul."

DR. FRANK CRANE ON THE DEVIL'S HANDICAP

By DR. FRANK CRANE

THE difficulty with a lie is that it does not fit. It not only does not fit the truth but it does not fit other lies. The excellence of truth is that it does fit.

An error is like a monkey wrench in the machinery. The whole universe is a wonderful mechanism. Every law in it harmonizes with every other law; every force in it co-operates with every other force.

That is why this solid globe spins around the sun and keeps its orbital track to the nicety of a hair.

And why the laws of mechanics are so exact and true.

That is the reason why William James' definition of truth is the best yet made:

"The truth is what will work."

The excellence of truth is that it leads to harmony. One truth is akin to all others. There are all members of the same living family and do not quarrel.

But when you get hold of a piece of nonsense, or of untruth, the more you hang on to it the more entangled you become.

The first duty of man is not to believe; it is to find out what to believe; it is not to have faith; it is to know what to have faith in.

You may believe with all your heart and with true religious devotion that a bullet, fired from a gun, will not harm you, yet you will get killed just the same if somebody shoots you, and quite as effectively, as if you were an agnostic.

Every falsehood is very much like a disease germ; unless it is destroyed it will break out in some kind of sore. Retained in the system it invariably causes pain or weakness.

Faith is of no value as a substitute for Truth; it is only good as a handmaiden to Truth; a follower and servant of Truth.

The devil always stumbles finally. He may run fast for a while and he may all imagine that he will win the race, but the truth is he does not belong in this world. He does not know the paths and pitfalls of the universe. By and by he falls. Only the honest mind and the good heart understand the world. They invariably succeed because every force in the universe is in co-operation with them. Their tragedy is only seeming. Their suffering is but temporary. Those who are half blind are those who believe that evil pays. But if a man's vision is clear and his judgment sound, he will never doubt that the devil is fatally handicapped.

GARRETT P. SERVISS ON RELATIVITY PUZZLE

By Garrett P. Serviss, Famous Astronomer and Writer of Scientific Topics

"Let us imagine a ball on a globe moving through space, with a human being inside, looking out at the stars and planets, neither sun, moon nor stars, nor any other object, would be human being knows whether he was moving up, down or sideways. Would he be aware of motion at all? If the ball moves, why should it move and if it is at rest, why should it be at rest?"

W. C. Ligon, Mass.

YOU are getting into the field of Einsteinian physics. You know motion only through relativity. If the motion were perfectly uniform, and inertia men who ride often up and down a direct or forty-story building, when the car starts to move there is a direct pressure on the feet. That which was either relatively at rest or moving with a velocity different from his own. And he would have no means of knowing the direction of that motion.

But if his motion were not perfectly uniform, or if he were originally at rest, he should suddenly begin to move, and he would become aware of both motion and direction.

For a long time, however, of any kind, would be his teacher. But everything is relative. These things if his speed or rate of motion simply varied, getting either swifter or slower, or if the direction varied.

Sometimes people riding on a smooth road in a powerful car become almost unconscious of their motion, or at least of its great velocity. But if the car turns a curve without slowing down, then they are suddenly and disastrously made fully aware of both the motion and its direction. Not only the car, but everything in it, including the passengers, is made fully aware of the original motion.

I would like a wolf, but if he can help my little brothers it will be all right.
